

Eric Conway is the director of the Morgan State University Choir and the chairperson of Morgan's Fine and Performing Arts Department. As director of the famed Morgan choir, he has travelled virtually all over the world, directing his choir in Czech Republic, Ghana, South Africa, and Colombia, to name a few destinations. Conway is a doctoral graduate of The Peabody Conservatory of Music of the Johns Hopkins University, where he majored in piano and conducting and received the prestigious Liberace scholarship. As a pianist, he has appeared in this country and abroad as a soloist and chamber musician. During a tour of Eastern Africa sponsored by the United States Information Agency, one of his solo recitals was broadcast on Madagascan television and radio. He has also toured Asia as the orchestral pianist of the Baltimore Symphony. Dr. Conway's choral accomplishments include working closely with some of the greatest conductors of the 20th Century including Robert Shaw, Sir Nevelle Mariner, and Donald Neuen. In June of 2006, Dr. Conway was Chorusmaster for performances of Mahler Symphony #2, ending the tenure of Baltimore Symphony's music director, Yuri Temirkanov. Also under his tenure, the Morgan Choir was nominated for a grammy-award in their contribution in the recording of the Bernstein Mass with the BSO. In addition to his musical accomplishments, he holds degrees in both Accounting and Business Management and is also a Certified Public Accountant. Conway is also a member of Maryland State Arts Council.
